

I once spent 2 weeks building a rich text editor just to find out bold and italic can be... surprisingly hard, still not a fan of writing docs (ironic I know), and if you tell me to follow instructions... yeah probably not. but give me a messy problem and I'll somehow get it to work, with duct tape and stubbornness. There was a time when video games kind of took over my life but I've patched that bug. currently in my "getting-life-back-on-track" phase morning yoga, fewer side quests, attention span slightly upgraded. I get distracted a lot, but I bounce back quick usually with a meme or two and fresh energy. In fast teams I do well building things that matter (also yes, I quietly freak out before every demo but hey that's part of the charm). If you're into calm chaos, someone who laughs at their bugs and is all in on learning and growing, would love to be part of the ride.